

Mary McCabe is a Program Manager of Quality Improvement and Operations in the Office of Research at Boston University, where she oversees human subjects research audits, quality improvement initiatives, regulatory review, and institution-wide education and training in research compliance. She is also a member of the Boston University Women's Guild and serves on the Awards Committee.

Mary earned a Bachelor of Arts in Psychology from Emmanuel College in 2008. She also completed a graduate certificate in Arts Administration at Boston University in 2016. Mary is continuing her education at UMass Lowell where she is working on a Certificate of Public Health.

Mary has lived in Lowell with her family since 2021. She enjoys bringing her children to events at the Pollard Library and exploring its history. She previously served on the School Site Council at the Moody Elementary School.